Be the first to 'cellarbrate' Australia's newest wines

You too could soon be raising your glass to the newest wines from the nation's best winemakers, with tickets to the Royal Queensland Food and Wine Show's (RQFWS) Grape Grazing by Night - Celebrating Australian Wine event on sale from today.

The exclusive event in July gives the general public the rare chance to sniff, swirl and sample almost 2,000 wines, including the Royal Queensland Wine Show (RQWS) award-winners from the new vintage of season which carry a tick of approval from the judges.

The RQWS is the first capital city wine show of the season and the first to judge the 2017 vintage in Australia.

While toasting to the exceptional drops, wine lovers can indulge in award-winning produce from the RQFWS, with grazing stations featuring Australia's best cheese, lamb and beef.

The event is now in its third year and is continuing to grow, with around 600 people tasting their way through more than 1,800 of the nation's finest red, white and sparkling at last year's event.

Grape Grazing will take place on Friday 7 July at the Brisbane Showgrounds from 5.30pm and tickets are now on sale at www.rqfws.com.au

For the month of April only, take advantage of the early harvest special and pick up your General Admission tickets at the discounted price of just $80 each. Special group discount rates and VIP tickets are also available.
